FRANKFORT, NOVEMBER 29, 1884.

OUR DEAD.

CAPT. GEORGE M. WOODS.

On Saturday evening, November 22d, at nine o'clock, Capt. George Marshall Woods breathed his last. He was born in this city on the 31st of December, 1834, and until about three months since was the perfect picture of health. In 1850 he became a clerk on the steamboat Blue Wing, commanded by Capt. Sam. Sanders, and plying between this city and Louisville. He continued in the steamboat business until the breaking out of the war, when he entered the Confederate Army. In October, 1863, he was dangerously wounded at Franklin, Tennessee, made a prisoner, and on recovering from his wound was paroled and came home. At the close of the war he returned to steamboating on the Kentucky river, but in 1875 went to New Orleans, where, together with Mr. Henry Harper, of that city, purchased a boat, of which he became Captain, and from that time continued to run upon the lower Mississippi and Red river. Trade becoming dull early in the past summer he laid up his boat and returned to his home in this city. The latter part of August he became ill and never left his bed afterwards. When the taper of his life was extinguished a wholesome, jovial gentleman went out from among us, whose friends were as numberless as the leaves in autumn.

In 1864 he married Miss Lou. Woodson, of this county, who, together with nine children, still survives him, who have the deepest sympathy of the entire community.

The funeral took place from the Presbyterian Church Tuesday morning, at 11 o'clock, and the remains were buried with the honors of Templar Masonry, he having been a member of Frankfort Commandery for a number of years.

ADAM KAHR.

After an illness of less than a week, Mr. Adam Kahr, for many years a prosperous merchant in this city, died at his home on St. Clair street Monday morning at half-past four o'clock. The deceased was born in Liebstadt, Germany, in 1827, came to this country in 1845, and made this city his home in 1849, where he began the manufacture of baskets in the old building at the foot of Ann street now on the premises of the Capitol Brewing Company. About 1858 he commenced the grocery business in a store-room on Market street, where the store of Mr. L. F. Compton now stands, where he did a prosperous business until 1863, when he removed to Louisville and went into the wholesale liquor business, but reverses in business caused him to return here about 1870, when he opened a grocery at 237 St. Clair, where he continued in business until his death. He was a highly respected, good citizen, kind hearted and liberal; he was universally popular with all who knew him. He was a prominent member of the Catholic Church, where his funeral took place at three o'clock Tuesday, and was very largely attended. St. Joseph's Society, of which he was an honored member, attended in a body and followed the remains to their last resting place.

He leaves a wife and seven children to mourn his loss.

JOSEPH OLBERTMAN.

After several months' illness, Mr. Joseph Olberman, a well known citizen, died Saturday at his home on Main street, of consumption.

For many years he conducted a prosperous business in the store-room at present occupied by Mr. V. Berberich, but in 1877 he sold out here and removed to Cincinnati. About a year ago he returned to this city to reside, but being in bad health, he gradually grew worse until his death ensued. His funeral took place Sunday afternoon from the Catholic Church.

The books of Messrs. Whitesides & McEwan show that during the past twelve months the average number of deaths in this community have been twenty-one per month.

Congress will meet on Monday.

The angel of death has indeed been busy in our midst within the last week and funerals have been of daily occurrence. Within two days three well-known citizens, heads of families, were stricken down and their homes made desolate. "In the midst of life we are in death."

Capt. Marsh. Woods and Mr. Adam Kahr were born in December and died within twenty-four hours of each other. Capt. Woods died on the same day that his youngest child did one year ago, and while delirious, a few hours before his death, imagined he saw the little one lying upon the floor and told those about him to take it up and place it beside him upon the bed.

In view of the probability of cholera visiting this country next year the State Board of Health have issued a circular letter to the health officers throughout the State urging them to give prompt attention to the filthy portions of their localities and have them cleaned up at once, and requesting that they inspect the water supply vaults, cellars, drains, backyards and alleys in their respective towns and cities. If their advice is heeded the impending danger may be averted next year.

Little Willie Banta, son of Mr. John M. Banta, undertook to load a small cannon made of a pistol barrel Saturday morning and had a close call for his life. He first put in some paper caps used for toy pistols, then poured in the powder and began ramming in the wadding, when the pressure on the caps caused them to explode and fire off the cannon. The ramrod just missed his head, and the powder burnt his face and eyes so badly that he was unable to see for several hours.

On Friday morning of last week Mr. Leonidas Harrod, who resides two and a half miles from the city, on the Versailles pike, caught a negro in his corn field shelling his corn into a sack. As soon as he saw him the black rascal took to his heels, and there was a lively foot race for a half mile, the negro finally outrunning his pursuer. In his haste he left his hat, sack and such corn as he had gathered. He had shelled the sack about half full. Mr. Harrod says if the thief will call at his house he will give him the hat and sack, but prefers to retain the corn.

The ladies of the Confederate Memorial Association will present Mr. Eugene S. Ashton's melodrama of Marguerite, at the Opera House, Tuesday evening, December 2d, with original music and dances. The best local amateur talent has been secured and the price will be well put upon the stage. The proceeds will be devoted to a fund which is being raised for the erection of a monument over the graves of the Confederate soldiers buried in the Cemetery here. With so worthy an object in view there should be a crowded house. The price of general admission will be 50 cents, reserved seats 75, gallery 25; children under 12 years half price.

A difficulty occurred on Market street Tuesday afternoon between Bud and Wicks Egbert and a colored man by the name of Tom Dobson, in which Bud Egbert was cut in the left side inflicting a serious wound, and in the left hand. Dobson was employed at the meat store of Mr. C. W. Finckel, and when the fuss began ran from the Egberts into the store, and on their following him, caught up a butcher knife and ran into the street again, but was pursued and caught by Bud Egbert, when he used the knife with the above effect. He immediately ran up the street and was pursued into St. Clair street, by his assailants, where he gave himself up to Deputy Sheriff Tobin, and Egbert, having fainted from loss of blood, was taken to Dr. Price's office.

Dobson is a son of Abe Dobson, a well-to-do colored man living in Bald Knob, has the reputation of being a quiet, good boy, and we are informed by eye witnesses to the difficulty that he avoided the trouble as long as he could.

As there was talk of an attempt to take Dobson out of jail and hang him Tuesday night Judge Thomson placed him in charge of Deputy Sheriff Tobin and sent him to Louisville for safe keeping.

The ladies of Providence Baptist Church realized $60 on their supper at the Forks of Elkhorn Thursday night.

The McGibney family in their new bijou musical and mimetic entertainment at Opera House Monday evening, December 1st.

Everybody will go to see the McGibney Family, as the prices suit everyone. You can reserve your seat for 50 cents. Children 25 cents.

The McGibney Family are now making their eleventh annual tour. They will appear at the Opera House on Monday evening, Dec. 1st.

Take the children to see one of the most interesting entertainments ever in Frankfort—the McGibney Family at the Opera House Monday, Dec. 1st.
